

WATERING KETTLE CANS BY ANTONIO ARICO

by Harry / March 24, 2011

From Antonio Arico in collaboration with Garage Design, a kettle shaped watering can. After discovering moulds for two old English traditional kettles, Arico began experimenting with "a mix between ceramics and plastic watering cans."

"His products, the Watering Kettle cans came from Antonio's desire to have a watering can not only connected to the aesthetical and practical world of gardening."

"Changing the concept and the use of these two common objects: a watering can and a kettle was a way for Antonio to magnify our usual life and putting some fantasy and magic in boring gestures."
